From the Bruſſels Gazette, dated November 20.

Naples, October 20.

A FEW Days ago an Edict was publiſh'd here, forbidding the giving any other Title to the preſent Regent of the Empire, than that of King of the Romans; and a like Edict has been publiſh'd at Meſſina; becauſe he has not notified his Advaucement to King Philip V. A Soldier, in Drink, crying out as he rode along the Streets Long live the Emperor, was taken up, and after Examination condemn'd to the Galleys for Life. The Garriſons of the fortified Places of the Baſilicata, are in Purſuit of the Banditi that infeſt that Province, and deſign utterly to extirpate them.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 24 and 27.

Baſil, November 15 and 19. The Roman Catholick Cantons are aſſembled at Lucerne. Baron Greuth, Subdelegate of Count Trautmansdorf the Emperor's Ambaſſador, deliver'd from the Emperor the following Letter t'other Day to thoſe Cantons.

'WE have been not a little ſurpriz'd at the Intelligence given us, that you have reſolv'd, 'in conſideration of a Sum of Money due to you, 'to renew your pretended Spaniſh Capitulation 'with the Duke of Anjou; and though we were 'ſome Time ago aſſur'd you had that Deſign, we 'would not give any Credit to the Advices and Reports ſpread of it, not being able (conſidering the Injuſtice of ſuch a Proceeding) to conceive That contrary to your Advantagious Neutrality and your Perpetual Alliance with us, you would without Neceſſity, much leſs of your own Accord and for ſordid Gain, aſſiſt our declar'd Enemies, enter into an Alliance with them, renounce your Neutrality and the perpetual Treaty concluded with our Predeceſſors, and in the beginning of our Reign give us juſt Ground of Reſentment againſt you without the leaſt Cauſe firſt given by us; not to mention the Blame you would draw upon your ſelves from Poſterity. For theſe and many other Reaſons, which your Penetration will eaſily ſuggeſt to you, we ſtill ſuſpend our Belief of the ſaid Reports; And yet we cannot forbear exhorting you by theſe Preſents, not to entertain ſo pernicious a Deſign; concerning which the Sieur Greuth will further declare to you our Mind and Will; and we deſire you to hear and give intire Credit to all he ſhall ſay to you in our Name.

Purſuant to his Commiſſion, Baron Greuth did viva voce, urge all he could to diſſwade the ſaid Cantons from renewing their Capitulation with the State of Milan in the Name of the Intruder into the Throne of Spain; But it does not yet appear it has had a good Effect upon them, who do but too much prefer their private Intereſt to the publick Good: 'Tis obſerv'd however, that they did not look for ſo vigorous an Oppoſition from the Emperor, and that the ſtrong Expreſſions of his Letter have a little ruffled them and put them out of their Bias. The Marquis Bereti Landi has preſented to them a Memorial on the Part of the Duke of Anjou, againſt the Emperor's Letter. The Republick of Venice has ratified the Treaty their Reſident concluded lately at Arau with the Cantons of Zurich and Berne, for 2 Regiments which thoſe Cantons are to furniſh them; and a Courier is daily expected at Zurich with that Ratification. Several Officers of the Swiſs Troops that are in the Service of the States General, are arriv'd in Switzerland to raiſe Recruits for thoſe Troops.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated November 20.

Stetin, November 7. The Ducal Palace of Pomerania is fitting up here for Queen Catherine Wife of King Staniſlaus, who with her Mother and a numerous Retinue is expected here within a Fortnight. New Levies for the King of Sweden are making with great Succeſs in theſe Parts.

Berlin, November 9. Commiſſions are given out in Sweden, for raiſing 16000 Soldiers and 12000 Seamen. We are here in impatient Expectation of the Ratification of the Treaty our Elector is entred into with the King of Sweden; the Contents of which Treaty are not yet made publick. Some pretend to be certainly inform'd that the Prince Royal is to marry the King of Sweden's Siſter Ulrica; and that 12000 Men of our Elector's Troops are to advance into Poland the enſuing Spring, to joyn the Swediſh Army. Several Conferences have been held here touching the Acknowledging of King Staniſlaus.

Hague, November 27. 'The States of the Province 'of Guelderland having return'd no Anſwer to the 'Letter mention'd in one of my former to be written to them by the States General, to preſs them 'to pay their Contingent of the Arrears due to the '2500 Pruſſians that are in our Service in the Netherlands, Baron Schmettau preſented a Memorial 'to their High Mightineſſes the 19th Inſtant, in 'which he deſir'd a Commiſſary might be appointed 'to ſettle the Accounts of thoſe Troops, in order to 'their returning home. We are willing to hope however, that by the Duke of Marlborough's interpoſing his good Offices when he is at the Court of 'Berlin, and by the Council of States including the 'Arrears in Queſtion into the Charge of the War for 'the enſuing Campaign, his Pruſſian Majeſty will be 'induc'd to let his Troops continue in our Service. 'That Miniſter has ſince given in a Memorial to 'the States of Holland, upon Occaſion of the Tax 'of the hundredth Penny which the States have 'laid upon all Stocks, Bonds, Rents and Incomes; 'from the Payment of which Tax he deſires the 'Eſtate the King of Pruſſia is poſſeſs'd of in the 'Province of Holland, and which devolv'd to him 'by Inheritance from Frederick Henry Prince of 'Orange, may be excepted: That Memorial is pretty long, the ſtrongeſt Reaſon urg'd in it, is, That 'this Republick, and in particular the Province of 'Holland, granted ſuch an Exemption to William I. 'Prince of Orange and his Deſcendants, in Conſideration of the great Services he had done the Republick: Now the King of Pruſſia, as Heir to 'Prince Frederick Henry, claims the Benefit of this 'generous Acknowledgment made by the Republick of the Services of the Houſe of Orange, 'Tis not known yet what Courſe the States of Holland will take in this Matter: But 'tis certain this Exemption is Subject to a Diſtinction or Qualification; for though the Deſcendants from Prince William in the male Line might reaſonably inſiſt upon it, thoſe in the female Line (by which Side the King of Pruſſia comes in) do not ſeem to have ſo juſt and ſtrong a Claim. Monſieur Hetterman, the Elector Palatines's Miniſter, had a Conference Yeſterday with the States Deputies upon the Conditions demanded by his Maſter for ſending 4000 Men he has in the Pay of Holland to ſerve under Prince Eugene in Italy: Which Conditions are, that the States pay thoſe Troops their Arrears amounting to 30000 Crowns; and that England and Holland take into their Service 3 or 4000 Men of his Troops above what they have already. The latter does not appear to be feaſible at preſent, becauſe in the Eſtimate of the War drawn up by our Council of State for the next Year, we cannot learn there is any Augmentation of Troops, (except of a few Men to each Company) nor do we hear of any Augmentation made by England. Hence the Envoy of Savoy has taken Occaſion to ſay with ſome Warmth to the Palatin Miniſter, that he will ſollicit the States to make no further Inſtance for the 4000 Palatins to be ſent to Italy, becauſe he foreſees the Demands made for them will be drawn out into ſuch a Length of Time, that the March of thoſe Troops will be delay'd till they are become uſeleſs to his Maſter: And as for the Arrears the Palatin Court is ſo urgent for, he told him there would be Due to the Duke his Maſter from this State 120000 Crowns on the 13th of December next, and yet he did not make the hundredth Part of the Buſtle the Palatin Miniſters had done for a Quarter of that Sum; but on the contrary ſollicited the Payment of it with Patience and Moderation, being ſatisfied the States never want the Will to make good all their Agreements, though they are ſome Times put to great Streights by the exceſſive Efforts they make to carry on their Part of the War. And indeed 'tis certain their High Mightineſſes muſt be at greater Expence for the enſuing Compaign than for the former, by Reaſon of the great Number of Horſes the Army has loſt; it appearing that this Year to the 1ſt of October the foreign Troops have loſt as follows; viz. the Danes by the contagious Diſtemper or Mortality 1816, at Forrage 202, againſt the Enemy 131; the Troops of Saxe Gotha 261 by Mortality, 49 at Forrage, 16 againſt the Enemy; thoſe of Hanover 345 by Mortality, 29 at Forrage, 2 againſt the Enemy; and thoſe of Heſſe Caſſel 179 by Mortality, 47 at Forrage, 3 againſt the Enemy. There are Letters from Paris, which ſay the Ambaſſador of Muſcovy has offer'd the Czar's Mediation of Peace between the contending Potentates for the Succeſſion of Spain, and that the King of France has accepted it; But 'tis hard to be believ'd the Muſcovite ſhould think it proper for him to undertake ſo nice an Office.

London, November 26.

On Friday Night my Lord Shannon and Captain Norris arriv'd from Spithead: They came in the Canterbury Man of War, which was diſpatch'd the 2d Inſtant by Sir Cloudſely Shovel from off Gibraltar, whence he was making the beſt of his Way for England with the Britannia, Royal Sovereign, 1ſt Rates; the Namur, Barfleur, Aſſociation, 2d Rates; the Devonſhire, Lenox, Revenge, Eſſex, Eagle, Aſſurance, Orford, Shrewsbury, Torbay, Yarmouth, 3d Rates. 4 Engliſh Frigates and 2 Dutch are left at Barcelona, and the reſt of the Fleet is to Winter at Lisbon under the Command of Sir John Leake. 'Tis confirm'd that Barcelona ſurrendred the 3d of October O. S. that all Catalonia had declar'd for King Charles III; and that his ſaid Catholick Majeſty was marching towards Saragoſſa, and the Earl of Peterborough towards Terragona. We hear Don Franciſco de Velaſco was ſet aſhore by our Fleet at Malaga; And that King Charles III has written a Letter, in which he ſpeaks very honourably of Sir Cloudſly Shovel, and among other things ſays he ow'd his Crown to the good and hearty Service he had done him. In the ſame Letter his Catholick Majeſty gives a very honourable Caracter of Captain Norris.
